—"GOODBYE MR. CHIPS"

Good-bye Mr. Chips, by James Hilton. Published by Little Brown and Company, 1938. 132 pages. —Reviewed by Margaret Stratton.

"Good-bye Mr. Chips" was written in London by James Hilton, who lived there. It was reprinted twenty-seven times, and last in 1938. The story tells of an elderly man and his life in the great Brookfield College.

Mr. Chips lived at Mrs. Wichett's, just across the road from the teachers and the school. Many days he would sit by the fireplace and dream of his younger days. Chips was very bashful when he first started to Brookfield as a teacher, and many times in his classroom he was unable to discipline the students. The headmaster gave him another chance and he succeeded. Chips wasn't liked at first, but later when he was older, his humor, and personality made him popular. Chips went abroad when he was 48 years old. Here he met the most beautiful girl in the world to him. They were married in London. She was loved by everyone; even the boys of Brookfield College. Chips was teaching when on April 1, 1896, he lost his first child and its wonderful mother. (This changed his life for he felt helpless by himself at this age).

Soon the war came, and Chips was made head-master of Brookfield in the place of the younger master who went to war. He was good to the boys and everyone loved him. One night he was taken ill, (mostly old age) and died, Brookfield said with a sorrowful heart- "Good-bye Mr Chips."

—"Grandma Called It Carnal"

—Charming Story of An Old New —England Grandmother.

By Bertha Damon, Norht Stonefield. The Simon and Schustr Company. 288 pp.
—Reviewed by Laura McFadden

Miss Bertha Damon tells of the life of her grandmother and some of her old-fashioned and peculiar ways.

After the death of Bertha and Alice Damon's mother, they were left orphans. They had nowhere to stay but at their Grandma Griswold's. Grandma took them when they were about five or six years old. She raised them through her own methods. Grandma didn't believe in any of the new styles that were coming up then so she just stuck to her old ones. Miss Damon tells of how her Grandma, as they called her, read bird books and flower books. She didn't believe in having feather beds. She liked her straw ticks better than any. She never allowed Bertha or Alice to have a pet, if they got one she would have it killed. When Bertha and Alice became of age she sent them to a boarding school. When they came back, their Grandma Griswold had softened a lot. She apologized to Bertha for being so cruel to her pets. Bertha went away to live, and she saw her Grandma only once when she came back on a visit. Grandma died at the age of ninety-six. The day she died was the first time the Doctor had ever been to see her.

Asks Change in GasTaxRefunds

(By VPA)

Recommendation that the present state law permitting refunds of gas state taxes be amended to reduce the refunds, except to the Federal Government, from five to four cents a gallon (one cent less than the present rate of the tax) has been made by the Weaver Highway Study Commission. The move would be made to provide funds with which to administer the refund provisions of the present act. Members of the Commission recalled that the State has been put to considerable expense to make investigations required to protect state funds from improper and unjustified claims and it was their opinion that people entitled to refunds should bear the administrative cost of a statute intended for their benefit. Even fuel consumed in school buses and vehicles for similar purposes is included in the Commission's recommendation. Last year the refunds to Federal and municipal owners, tractor operators and certain other non-highway users amounted to $1,041,000 and from January through September this year to $825,000.

The proposed change in refund tax provisions was one of a list of 20 recommendations that the Commission will transmit to the Governor for ultimate consideration by the 1940 legislature. Another proposal would establish a minimum age of 21 years for school bus drivers compared with the present 18, which under present law may be lowered to 16 in special cases.

Headache, Bad Breath Tell of More to Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so Nature's messengers—headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation's discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy; mental dullness.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 29

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND SOCIAL PROGRESS

LESSON TEXT—Micah 2:9-11; Luke 21: 29-33, 34-36; I Corinthians 6:9-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God?—I Corinthians 6:9.

"International Temperance Sunday—October 29, 1939." Let us join with people the world over in making our protest against the sale and use of intoxicating liquors. If every Christian would declare himself on this matter now, there would be a tremendous impact made on this universal problem and notice would be served on the liquor industry, on politicians, and on unbelieving mankind that Christianity intends to do something about it. We are far too docile and quiet on such matters, when we ought to speak up for God and for our country.

The lesson portions may seem a little unrelated, but study of them yields three important truths regarding the use of wine and strong drink.

I. Lovers of Wine and Strong Drink Destroy Their Nation (Mic. 2:9-11).

This statement may surprise some of our self-styled patriots who like to wave the flag and speak swelling words of devotion to our country and who at the same time love their intoxicating drinks. Micah rightly points out that his people had come to the place where they chose men to be prophets because they encouraged the people in the use of wine and strong drinks (v. 11). They must therefore expect the result which follows, namely, the destruction of the home and of the nation (vv. 9, 10).

We are all familiar with the claim that prohibition retarded the advancement of our nation and that its repeal would bring a return to higher moral standards, reduce crime, bring in prosperity, etc. The facts reveal that none of these have come true. Crime has increased by leaps and bounds under repeal, a situation so well known as to call for no proof. Moral standards have gone rapidly downward with the free use of liquor. If you don't believe that, ask a policeman what goes on in our taverns, or just keep your eyes half open and you can see for yourself.

Just how much is being made of the many jobs which are supposed to have been created by the liquor industry. What are the facts? The Christian Herald tells us, "A million dollars spent for furniture would employ 339 persons, spent for boots and shoes 335 persons, for home furnishings 191 persons, for booze just 45 persons." And remember that jobs making the stuff that destroys other jobs, are not worth having. The man who drinks is helping to destroy his nation.

II. Christians Do Not Drink, Because They Look for Christ's Return (Luke 21:29-31, 34-36).

If we are not "looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ" (Titus 2:13), we should consider whether any of the things mentioned in these verses have gained control in our lives: the cares of this life, surfeiting, or drunkenness. But why speak to Christians about that? Surely they do not use intoxicants. Sadly enough, some do. Taking advantage of the fact that the Bible speaks of temperance rather than of abstinence, they seek to justify an indulgence in these things which they (and their neighbors) know is dishonoring to God and destructive of their testimony and usefulness in the community.

Christian, Jesus is coming again! He may come today! In fact, the fig tree (vv. 29, 30), which is the nation Israel, has long been shooting forth new branches and bearing green leaves. The indications are that Christ is coming soon. Are you ready to meet him?

III. Drunkards and Other Sinners Need to be Saved (I Cor. 6:9-11)

Being drunk is not a joke, even though thoughtless people laugh and cartoonists and writers of jokes use such unfortunates as their stock in trade. Drunkenness is a foul and sinful thing, classed by the Apostle Paul with the lowest of human vices. Review the list as it is given in verses 9 and 10 (and by the way, notice that covetousness is mentioned there too) and place drunkenness in its proper classification. Call it what it really is—sin, and then call on the One who can save from sin and then you will be washed from your sin, sanctified, and justified in the name of the Lord Jesus (v. 11). In Christ there is hope for the drunkard. A spiritual revival is the real answer to the liquor problem. Let us seek to promote it even as we at the same time give ourselves to an intelligent and constructive battle against this destructive force in the life of our nation.
